

For Immediate Release:

MBRAUN USA hires Justin Dexter as Sales Manager for the Nuclear Division

Stratham, NH (October 22, 2013) – MBRAUN is pleased to announce its recent hire of Justin Dexter, who will join the MBRAUN team as Sales Manager for the nuclear division. Justin’s proven background in project management, accounts development, and overall senior level experience in the nuclear market will help ensure MBRAUN’s continued growth within this field.

Justin Dexter has over 20 years experience in the nuclear market and will bring his skills and expertise to the MBRAUN sales team. Most recently, Justin was an accounts manager for IP Systems, a manufacturer of custom nuclear gloveboxes & hot cells, pharmaceutical isolators for toxic or aseptic containment, radiopharmaceutical hot cells, and e-beam sterilization systems. Prior to that he was a project manager at Spectra Tech and was responsible for performing business development activities for the nuclear and engineering divisions. Justin has also held engineering and project management positions with Merrick and Walker Barrier Systems. He holds a Bachelors of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from the Colorado School of Mines and is the acting secretary/treasurer for the American Glovebox Society. “We are very excited that Justin has made the decision to join the MBRAUN sales team. His knowledge of nuclear gloveboxes, hot cells, radiopharmaceutical hotcells, and pharmaceutical isolators will help expand MBRAUN’s already growing product line,” says Michael Boutin Sales Manager at MBRAUN.
